Saints Who Promoted Eucharistic Adoration

St. Margaret Mary Alacoque (7/22/ 1647-10/17/1690)

Feast: October 16

St. Margaret Mary Alacoque was born in Verosvres, France. Very early on she showed a great love for the Blessed Sacrament. During her childhood, she contracted rheumatic fever; she became paralyzed and confined to her bed for four years. It was during this time she made a vow to the Blessed Virgin Mary to consecrate herself to religious life. Shortly thereafter, she was cured.

At age 24, she entered the Order of the Visitation nuns. The first of her revelations was in 1674. Jesus came to her in a vision requesting that she make evident his love for humankind. His human heart was to be the symbol of his divine-human love for all. Margaret Mary was to make up for the ingratitude of the world by frequent and loving Holy Communion.

Neither Mother Superior nor the other nuns believed her. She was even ridiculed. Mother Superior instructed Margaret Mary to reveal her visions to some theologians, who judged them to be delusional.

It wasn't until Blessed Claude de la Columbiere arrived as a confessor to the nuns that her visions were first validated. Blessed Claude actually adopted the teachings of the Sacred Heart from her visions. Her own community finally observed the feast in 1865.

In 1765, Pope Clement XIII in 1765 officially recognized the devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, 756 years after Margaret Mary's death.
